

Introduction of One World Project

One World Project is organized by Shanghai Xubo Art and Cultural Exchange Company. In this summer in 2009, we have about 20 volunteers to work in the kindergarten as an English teacher. They did a very good job about their lessons and also organized German, Dutch, Austrian, Belgian, Norwegian and Irish Days. Furthermore, they visited a lot of beautiful places here. All volunteers enjoyed their teaching and visiting in Shanghai.

These are our aims for One World Project:

1. Help children in need.
2. To gain teaching, working experience and an active exchange of culture in China.
3. To enable people, communities and institutions in China to benefit from working with volunteers.

One World Project is an activity to show all other foreign countries' culture and their fantastic stories. Volunteers come to here to improve Chinese kids' English level and let them know more about foreign cultural things through lessons and games. And also volunteers can learn more Chinese culture through the communication with kids and teachers. Furthermore, they will improve their leadership and organisational skills by single-handedly tackling this challenge. They can also improve their ability to communicate with others and manage time by organising the One World Day.

This year was already the 3rd year for One World Project. Until now, there were already more than 40 volunteers came to Shanghai to take part in the project. They help Chinese kids to improve oral English, played with kids together, organized One World Day, visited beautiful places and made many friends here. When they were about to leave, everyone of them don't want to go and promise to come back again next year. By the way, the most attractive thing to them here is real Chinese food!

It's Yummy!

Hope you will be the next one to experience Shanghai and China!
